Tennessee Master Gardener Program

The Tennessee Master Gardener Program is a volunteer service program provided by the University of Tennessee Extension. The program serves Tennesseans with home horticulture information and recruits new volunteers for training, certification, and service through the local Extension offices.

The Vision of the MGWC is to be recognized by Wilson County area residents as the leading organization from which to find useful, proven, and easy to understand horticultural information for the Middle Tennessee area that helps to safeguard the natural world in which we live.

The Mission of the MGWC is to empower residents to improve their gardens and lawns with research based horticultural information, while promoting environmental stewardship.
